The Escondido Creek Conservancy invites you to the grand opening of an amazing exhibit this Fall about the transforming power of fire which is told through the paintings of James Hubbell and Pamela Underwood and the first hand photographs and found remnants of locals who also went through the Harmony Grove (1996), Cedar (2003) and Witch (2007) fires. It is an ecological story of the resilience of people and places. Following the artist reception, Rick Halsey, from the Chaparral Institute will give a talk on the part fire plays in the environment.
